Osterberg LLC Opens Boston Law Office in Start-Up Center

Boston, MA. – September 15, 2014 – Osterberg LLC is pleased to announce that it has added an office in Boston, MA on the 17th Floor of 50 Milk Street. The building is home to the Boston branch of the Cambridge Innovation Center. The firm also has offices in Stamford, CT and New York City, N.Y.

Osterberg LLC's founder, Eric Osterberg stated, "I have wanted to open an office in Boston for a long time. I have clients in town and family in the area. Boston is a center of technology, innovation and cultural development and an exciting place to work. I look forward to serving my existing clients and establishing new relationships in Boston".

Osterberg LLC specializes in representing technology companies, entertainment companies and other intellectual property owners and users. The firm handles the full range of commercial litigation, but focuses primarily on IP and IP-related litigation, such as copyright infringement, patent and design patent infringement, trade secret disputes, trademark and trade dress infringement, breaches of technology and entertainment industry contracts, counterfeiting and false advertising.

Mr. Osterberg also serves as "outside general counsel" to start-ups and assists a variety of businesses that need to outsource a portion of their legal work on a temporary or permanent basis. He also helps businesses formulate privacy policies and terms of service for their websites, and evaluate product liability and advertising risks with respect to the launch of new products.
